

068 Complete the word: vowels

This game gets children started on the reading and writing process by identifying vowels and recognising how they are written. At the same time, it expands their vocabulary and improves their lexical fluency.

Introducing the session

At the beginning of the session you can play with the Miniland letters, showing the child a few of them and asking him or her to say words that begin or contain that letter or phoneme. Next, we recommend the child is left free to start handling the letters themselves, making their own name or words they know and like. Lastly, and depending on the child's skills level, they can copy the words they made or sort a group of letters to form new words.

Game with Miniland product

Each card shows three pictures and, next to them, the silhouettes of the letters that make up the name of the picture. The activity consists of searching for the Miniland letters and placing them on top of the silhouette in the correct order to form the name of the picture.

Once placed, the child has to colour each Miniland letter silhouette in the same colour as the Miniland letter placed on top.

To adapt the game to the diversity of children at these ages, activity sheet formats have been created with varying levels of difficulty:

Level 1: look for vowels only, then place and colour them.

Level 2: look for both vowels and consonants, then place and colour them.

This resource consists of a total of eight activity sheets, four for each level.

Digital game

The aim of the digital game is for the child to discover and select the missing vowel. To make the mechanics of the game easier, a picture is included to act as a visual reference. The game fosters bilingual skills, showing a word in Spanish and in English with a vowel missing from each word. The child has to drag the vowel to complete the name of the picture in English and in Spanish.
